WILL LEAVE IT AS A LEGACY

Cleveland Does Not Expect to Deal With the Venezuelan Question.

Said to Have Intimated That He Does Not Expect the Commission's Report Before Next Winter.

From a high administration source the hint emanates that it is the intention of President Cleveland to pose the Venezuelan question over into the next administration, and that in pursuance of that program a plan of delay has been inaugurated.

When the commission was made to Holland, Spain and other distant points. The President, it is said, has told the members of his cabinet that he does not expect to have a report from the commission until next winter, and from close to the White House the suggestion is dropped that Mr. Cleveland fears that Secretary Olney made a mistake in applying the principles of the Monroe doctrine to the Venezuelan boundary case.

There are a great number of Senators and Representatives who say that they are willing to wait until the commission will not be ready to hand in its report before the present administration goes out.

Damaged by a Runaway. A double team belonging to William Riley and attached to a wagon driven by Thomas Noll became frightened at Fifth street and New York avenue northwest yesterday afternoon and ran away. Spending up at L street and shattered the glass. They freed themselves and crashed into B. A. Weiss' wagon, slightly damaging both vehicles. The runaway was stopped by one of the horses being thrown. No one was hurt.

GRIPMAN NOT TO BLAME

Coroner's Jury Finds Dr. Moffatt's Death an Accident.

WAS LYING ON THE TRACK

Evidence Adduced, However, Throws But Little Light on the Accident. Power of Headlights and Efficiency of Fenders Questioned—Gripman and Railway Company Exonerated.

Six citizens, comprising a coroner's jury of inquest, held an examination yesterday afternoon on the death of Dr. Samuel S. Moffatt of No. 719 Eleventh street northwest, who was run over and crushed to death beneath the wheels of a Columbia cable car early yesterday morning. Their verdict was that the physician's death was accidental, and the railroad employees were exonerated from all blame.

Coroner Hammett commenced the inquest at 3:30 o'clock at Lee's undertaking establishment. Sergt. Acton, who represented the police department, had summoned the witnesses and the following jurymen: Fred J. Miller, John Dalton, ex-Detective George O. Miller, George Biggs, Benjamin Kurtz and Columbus Denham.

The report of the coroner described the death of Dr. Moffatt's body. He found two wounds, either of which would have resulted fatally. The entire crown of the skull was shattered and a large artery of the leg severed. From his examination the deputy coroner judged that death was in the pink of health just before the accident.

Joseph H. Atwell, gripman of car 27, which ran over Dr. Moffatt, testified that he resides at No. 1396 Florida avenue northwest. At 1:30 yesterday morning he was running what is known as "the last car," and was east bound. The car was bowling along at "the full speed of the rope," which is about nine or ten miles an hour.

When near the crossing of New York avenue and Tenth street he discovered a dark object lying across the track about five feet ahead. The car tracks at that point are flanked on either side by a roadway parking, and the shade of two large trees made it one of the darkest spots along the line.

Atwell says he applied the brakes as quickly as possible, but not in time to prevent the car from running over the prostrate form. When within two feet of the dark object on the track he saw by the glare of the headlights that it was a man lying stretched out on his back in such a position that he thought he must have been placed there. The rails were wet and slippery, but the car was brought to a standstill within twenty feet of where the man was struck.

Coroner Hammett raised the question as to how far the cable car headlights cast their glare. Gripman Atwell at first said by the aid of the headlights objects on the track could only be seen five feet ahead.

Dr. Hammett suggested that they are said to throw their rays as far as 100 feet. He added that fenders, such as that on car 27, were not in his opinion adequate for the proper protection of life and limb. There was considerable discussion as to headlights, but little as to fenders.

Louis Klotz of No. 2018 Ninth street northwest and John A. Ryan of No. 49 K street northeast, both night telegraph operators, were walking homeward along New York avenue and heard Dr. Moffatt groan after the car struck him. It was shown rather conclusively that deceased was lying across the track when he was run over, and after a few minutes' deliberation the jury returned this verdict:

"We, the jury, believe that Samuel S. Moffatt came to his death on the morning of the 25th day of April, 1896, by being run over by car No. 27, of the Columbia Street Railway Company; and we further believe it was entirely accidental; therefore we exonerate the gripman and conductor from all blame."

The street car company was represented at the inquest by Theodore J. King and the superintendent, Dr. Moffatt's family by Attorney Percy Metzger, Judges Scott and Dr. Gilbert. The friends of the deceased do not believe he was intoxicated at the time of his death. They say he was subject to attacks of heart trouble and may have fallen on the track during one of these.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, at Foundry M. E. Church, and the remains will be sent to Ossonge, Ontario, for interment.

WOULDN'T GET ON HIS KNEES

Manager High at Academy Declines to Act Under Orders.

Propertyman Wolfe Assaults the Manager on Behalf of His Sister.

How Behind the Scenes.

There was a realistic performance of assault and battery last night on the stage at the Academy of Music, when Mr. High, brother of Miss Carrie Wolfe, the actress, assaulted and struck Mr. J. G. High, the manager of the "McKenna's Filialists." As related to a police officer the story is that Mr. Wolfe had been informed that Mr. High had made some unsavory remarks about Miss Wolfe, who, bearing of them, reported the facts to her brother. This set Mr. Wolfe in a temper, and there was a meeting between all concerned and some were not concerned, last evening behind the curtain.

Mr. Wolfe approached Mr. High and rapidly made him acquainted with the charges against him.

"Down on your knees," he shouted. "Down on your knees, and beg my sister's pardon!"

Mr. High, however, for some reason not explained, did not get at once, or at any time, down on his knees, but he did inform Mr. Wolfe quietly that he had not made any such remarks about Miss Wolfe as were attributed to him. This did not satisfy Mr. Wolfe, who sailed into Mr. High and struck him several times.

Mr. Wolfe is a property man, and it is said that it will be a part of the proof that some friends of Mr. Wolfe held Mr. High while he was being maltreated.

Mr. High after the fracas looked up an officer of the police court and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Wolfe.

The warrant was placed in the hands of Officer Schuyler. It was returnable at precinct 1, but it was stated there that Mr. Wolfe was believed to have gone over to Baltimore, and hence there was no arrest.

Gone for the London Robbers. New York, April 25.—Detective Sergis, John McCauley and Frank N. Evenden sailed on the steamship Campania today, with extradition papers for William D. Dunlop and William Turner, who, as alleged, stole the jewels of I. Townsend Burton.

PENSIONS AND EULOGIES

These, With a Report On the Sunday Civil, Occupied the House.

Mr. Grosvenor and Delegate Flynn Had a Spat Which Enlivened the Session.

The second conference report upon the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was yesterday made to the House and agreed to, another conference being ordered upon the few remaining matters in dispute.

The conference subjects settled by the report was that fixing the salaries of United States district attorneys and marshals. As agreed upon, the total salaries of attorneys carried in the bill as it passed the House was increased $23,000 and that of marshals increased $4,500.

An animated and unexpected incident was presented in connection with this report. Mr. Grosvenor inquired respecting a provision prohibiting the legislature of Oklahoma from considering any proposition to relocate the capital of the Territory.

Being informed that this had already been agreed upon by both houses, Mr. Grosvenor declared that "it ought to destroy any man a party to it."

This brought Mr. Flynn, delegate from Oklahoma, to his feet, with the statement that a similar provision had been contained in every bill since the first year of the Territory's existence, in obedience to the almost universal demand of the people for a permanent seat of government.

Mr. Grosvenor replied the suggestion, saying he did not know what the "enormous" distinction between Oklahoma meant by those words. He had but done his duty and the bombastes furious performance made no impression upon him.

The general pension bill was further discussed for a couple of hours by Messrs. Grosvenor and Kerr, Rep., Ohio, in support of it, and by Messrs. Bartlett, Dem., New York, and Miles, Dem., Maryland, in opposition.

At 3:30 o'clock, under a previous order, the House listened to the delivery of eulogies upon the late Representative W. B. Crain of the Eleventh district of Texas.
